JOHN O. WATSON REPUBLICAN NOMINEE FOR COMMISSIONER

North Charleroi Man Beats Out Luellen in Close Primary Contest

TEMPLE WINS FOR CONGRESS

Washington Man Wins—Frank B. Wickerham Wins Honors for Sheriff According to Report From County Seat—Dr. Alexander a Winner.

John O. Watson of North Charleroi was nominated by 150 votes for county commissioner on the Republican ticket, along with Thomas Hill, of Union township Tuesday at the primaries. This was the information divulged from the county commissioners' office at about 11:30 o'clock today. There remained but a few precincts to hear from, including Hanover and Robinson. Both these precincts are small and an even break is expected, so that there is not the slightest possibility of a doubt about his nomination. The only thing that could affect him is a mistake in the count and any such thing is improbable.

In the county Hon. Henry W. Temple won out for congress over Elliott by about 3,000 votes.

John O. Watson

In the commissioner fight, where local interest was centered, Luellen of Beallsville made a strong bid for honors against Watson. Hill was leading man.

Frank B. Wickerham of Monongahela has been nominated for sheriff, it seems. From the few precincts to be heard from there is little likelihood of any change in the result. Miller was next high man, a mere 150 or 200 votes separating the two.

For district attorney it seems that Isaac W. Baum was the successful candidate over T. H. W. Fergus. Definite returns were unobtainable at this writing. Coroner Heffran has been nominated for coroner over Britton, his strongest opponent. Hawkins and Browneller apparently are the nominees for director of the poor.

Dr. Alexander was a winner for treasurer, according to late reports. Figures are not given. No Democratic figures are obtainable at this time.

FEATURE OF COMPLIMENTARY CONCERT TO BE "LUCIA" SEXTET

The following will participate in the program at the Bosson testimonial concert to be held at the high school auditorium next Friday evening. Miss Ethel Hawthorne, Miss Ethel Barth, Miss Isabella Dorbritz, Warren Kinder, Doss T. James, Prof. C. A. Dobson, California and Prof. I. T. Daniel, vocalists; Miss May Barth and Miss Bethel Bowman, pianists and accompanists and Miss Mary M. Chester, elocutionist. One of the musical features will be the sextette from "Lucia di Lammermoor," sung by Misses Hawthorne and Dorbritz and Messrs Kinder, James, Dobson and Daniel. A splendid program has been arranged and the support of the public is earnestly solicited.

Are Republican Winners in Borough-Pollock and Campbell for School Board

WATSON'S VOTE IS PLEASING

Capt. John K. Hein, D. R. Duvall, and H. L. Swickey were the Republican nominees selected by the voters of that party for council at the primaries Tuesday. Delbert Carson, William Monroe and William Sauters were the Democratic nominees for the same place.

W. D. Pollock and John Campbell were the winners of the Republican nominations for school board and Democratic nominees were George D. Clark and Samuel Martin.

Interesting contests were staged within the Republican party for borough offices. There was a battle on for school director, with the three candidates running high. Constable F. W. Jones and George Stablein barely escaped a tie for constable, Stablein leading by just two votes according to the tabulation.

The large complimentary vote tendered John O. Watson of North Charleroi, for county commissioner, was one of the pleasing things connected with the Republican voting. Charleroi stood behind Mr. Watson pretty solidly, giving him in the six precincts 415 votes. In the judicial fight Judge Irwin carried the borough. Former Congressman Temple was given a slight plurality for congress in Charleroi, his vote being 303 to Elliott's 301.

Coroner James T. Heffran polled a nice vote here, leading over his nearest opponent, Greenlee by 200 votes. The candidate to receive the highest number of votes was Lockhart, with 525 votes to his credit.

Close to 1,300 votes were case in the borough. The largest, naturally was the vote on the non partisan bal-

PARADE USUAL BIG FEATURE

Is Inspiring Spectacle—"Big City" Travels in Four Sections, With 79 Cars in the Total—Arrive Early This Morning

Traveling in four sections on a total of 79 cars the Barnum and Bailey shows arrived early this morning from Connellsville where two performances were given to large crowds yesterday. The first section arrived before daylight and the work of putting up the numerous tents was immediately started.

As usual the circus was greeted by an army of juvenils, who were undaunted by the coolness of the atmosphere. School is a minus quantity today. The work of unloading in the dawn of the early morning was a scene that was to be compared to nothing else in the world. It was simply the moving and housing within a few minutes as it seemed, of a complete city.

The Barnum and Bailey circus, which is considered the largest in the world is this year making its first visitation in Charleroi, and the chances are that this splendid show town will be placed on the circus map for a visit every two years.

The parade, an event as scheduled for this morning proved to be a revelation in parades. It was gorgeous if not awe inspiring. Music was of the finest quality.

Preceeding the afternoon and evening performances the band concerts will be given and the Barnum and Bailey bands are among the finest. One of the regular circus features that is especially strong with the Barnum and Bailey people is their zoo, and this promises to attract due attention from the hundreds or thousands which will visit the shows. The opening pageant of each performance will be that of Lally Rookh's entrance into Delhi, as the pageant is termed. The Barnum and Bailey shows have several new and novel features and these are bound to be especially attractive.

Pennsylvania Among States To Make Definite Changes In Game Protection

SEASONS ARE HARMONIZED

More than 240 new games laws were enacted during 1915—a larger number than in any previous year except 1911, according to Farmers' Bulletin 692, "Game Laws for 1915." Forty-three states held regular legislative sessions and in all of these states except Arizona, Georgia and Nebraska some changes were made in the statutes protecting game. The largest number of new game laws passed in any one state was 61, in North Carolina, but in California, Connecticut, Maine, New Jersey, Oregon, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin the number reached 10 or more. Several measures were vetoed, including a general game bill in Idaho, the first bill appropriating the hunting-license fund in Pennsylvania, a bill protecting bears in California, and three sections of the game bill in Washington. A number of bills were introduced for the purpose of

PRUDISH PARENTS

There are certain simple facts of life which every boy and girl should learn from the science and advice of the father and mother may prove of inestimable value to them. If parents have not cultivated a relationship with their children which will enable them to discuss such problems which budding man and womanhood bring, they have fallen far short of doing their duty maintains the state commissioner of health in his weekly health and hygiene chat.

The evasions, lies and prudish attitude of parents has been responsible for mistakes which have resulted in agony of soul and body for innumerable growing boys and girls.

There is no period in life when children are more sensitive to influences for good and evil than in this formative stage. It is not fair to expect your children to come to you with those things which they are perfectly well aware you have avoided discussing in every possible way. They will accept and seek information from other sources if they cannot get it from their parents; the chances are a hundred to one that what they get will be misinformation and the injurious lies of companions with a distorted moral code.

If you do not feel competent to discuss these matters with your children in a manner which will give them a thorough and full understanding of the responsibilities and functions of manhood and womanhood, it is better to admit it and arrange to have your family physician talk the matter over with them fully.

This is far from being as satisfactory however, as being yourself fully informed regarding the problems which your children have to solve and encouraging them to come to you with the doubts and questions which they are certain to have, to solve and encouraging them to come to you with the doubts and questions which they are certain to have.

Ignorance by no means implies innocence. Confidence and earnest high-mindedness alone will beget their like from your children. If you never discuss the problems of sex which every healthy boy and girl has forced upon them by nature you may be certain they will return the deficience in kind. They are certain to seek information somewhere. If you do not give them the truth frankly and willingly they will accept what they can pick up from questionable sources.

CHAPMAN CAMPAIGN AT WASHINGTON PLANNED

Famous Evangelist Asked to Visit County Seat. With Every Possibility of His Acceptance—Heard First Invitation Favorably.

A tabernacle revival in which all the protestant churches of Washington will unite and which will start during the middle of February and continue for five weeks with the Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, one of the nation's most noted evangelist, in charge is now a practical certainty.

Evangelist Chapman virtually accepted the call to come to Washington and conduct the big revival when he was visited in New York City on Friday of last week by Rev. Arthur Smith, pastor of the Jefferson Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, of Washington, the Rev. Smith being a delegate from the Washington ministerial association.

At this conference Evangelist Chapman asked that the sentiment of the laymen of the Washington churches be secured. Laymen representing every church in Washington met at the Y. M. C. A. and after hearing discussions on the proposed revival voted almost unanimously to have Evangelist Chapman [illegible] this county.

NEW STATE GAME LAWS

harmonizing the state laws on migratory birds with the Federal regulations. In at least nine states changes were made which brought the seasons into substantial agreement, viz, California, Connecticut, Maine, Michigan, New Hampshire, Tennessee and West Virginia. In Illinois the seasons for all migratory birds except coot and waterfowl, and in Washington for the smaller shore birds, were made to conform with the regulations under the Federal law. Uniformity was also secured by provisions in the laws of Connecticut, Maine, New Mexico, North Dakota, Washington and Wisconsin, prohibiting hunting between sunset and sunrise. On the other hand, Delaware adopted a resolution opposing the migratory-bird law and Ohio and Rhode Island, which had harmonized their seasons in 1914, changed the seasons on waterfowl this year.

Under present conditions deer hunting is permitted in 36 states, in about one-third of which the hunter is limited to one deer a season and in most of the others to two. Eighteen states protect does at all seasons and allow only bucks to be killed—namely Alabama, Arizona, California, Georgia, Idaho, Missouri, Mississippi, New Mexico, Nevada, New York, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Texas, Utah, Vermont, West Virginia, and Wisconsin. Pennsylvania requires that deer killed shall have horns 2 inches above the hair, New York and Vermont at least 3 inches long and West Virginia 4 inches long while California prohibits entirely the killing of spike bucks.

A MONTH TOO EARLY

By DEAN CARRUTHERS.

Cicely Meredith re-read the letter from the manager of the Pebble Beach hotel. It informed her that her application for a position as hotel stenographer had been accepted and that the salary would be sixty dollars a month with board.

"Please report for duty May 15," it ended.

The Pebbleton station was perched on a rise of ground and from it a road slanted down to the sea. There was a board walk along the beach and several great caravansaries lifted their bulk above the high-water mark.

"I want to go to the Pebble Beach hotel," explained Cicely to the station master. "Isn't there a stage or a cab to take me there?"

He shook his head.

"You can walk it easy, miss. It's that last hotel on your right. There, hear that thunder. You better wait here or run."

"I'll run," said Cicely as she scurried down the road.

She hated thunderstorms and so she fled before this one like a thing possessed of great fear. It was with shortened breath and throbbing heart that she reached the last hotel and ran up on the broad plazza.

A jagged flash of lightning streaked the gray sky to the horizon.

"Mercy!" panted Cicely, her hand on the front door knob. But it refused to yield to her touch, so she hurried around to the western wing of the hotel and discovered another door. The door was slightly ajar and she pushed it wide and then closed it.

She found herself in a small office, desolate and untenanted. The closed desks and the safe were covered with last year's dust. There was a curious feeling of loneliness about the place that frightened her.

"Is anyone here?" asked Cicely. But another crash of thunder shook the building. "Oh, dear;" she cried, in a panic of fear; "what shall I do?" While she quivered there, she heard another sound—a sound of footsteps echoing through empty rooms.

She opened one of the desk drawers and groped in its dark interior. Her fingers closed on something cold and hard. It was a revolver. A feeling of security stiffened her courage.

And then the door opened and closed again and another presence entered the hall.

The man stared at her in open-eyed amazement. He was young and trim with a dark, clean-cut face, fine eyes and a humorous mouth.

"I—I'll shoot!" she threatened in a small voice.

"Please don't," he said lightly.

Then she added menacingly, "It's loaded."

"Then don't point it at me," he said sternly. "Don't be frightened. I believe you're the very person I'm looking for. Are you Miss Meredith?"

"Yes," said Cicely, lowering the gun.

"I'm Harry Charlson," he explained. "My father's been away from his office for a week and just returned this morning. On looking over his mail, he found your letter saying that you would report for duty here on the 15th of May. You are a month ahead of time and so father sent me down post haste to bring you back. The carpenters and cleaners are in charge at present and some of them are rather rough characters. We were worried about you."

"But," protested Cicely, "Mr. Charlson's letter distinctly stated May 15. Mother and I wondered about it." She took the letter from her bag and gave it to him.

"It's one on dad all right," he grinned. "He meant June 15. When I couldn't find you I supposed you'd discovered your mistake and gone home. I was going around by the station to inquire. I came down in my motor. Where were you hiding?"

Cicely explained her adventures during the last hour and then together they left the hotel, young Charlson locking the door carefully after them.

At the foot of the steps a great motor car was purring. "You will allow me to drive you back to town?" he asked.

"I really should take a train," explained Cicely. "We have given up our flat and mother is staying at my grandmother's in Lindenwood."

"Lindenwood? Oh, that's on the north side about opposite Pebbleton. We'll take the cross-island road and make it in a couple of hours."

During that two hours' ride across the rain-drenched island he told her that he expected to spend the summer in Europe. After that he was to take his father's place as manager of the Pebble Beach in summertime and of their Florida hotel in winter.

He left her at her grandmother's gate, and with a pressure of the hand he was gone. He motored over occasionally to give Cicely news of the progress of repairs at Pebbleton and one day he said he had decided to act as clerk at the Pebble Beach that summer.

"But I thought you were going to Europe," protested Cicely.

"That can wait," he said slowly. A flush came into his dark face. "I'll save it for a wedding trip—some day."

"Oh!" said Cicely and changed the subject; but his words rang in her ears. The memory of his look thrilled her heart; she only knew that the summer was to be a dream of joy if he was to spend it with her, and beyond the summer she would not look.

In Memorium.

Whereas, It has pleased our Heavenly Father, in his infinite wisdom, to remove from amongst us our esteemed brother and fellow member William Comer, who died August 16, 1915 and

Whereas, The life that made our association with him pleasant is at an end, and the gates of death are closed upon our further intercourse; and,

Whereas, By his many ennobling traits of character he had endeared himself to us, and in his career has left an example to his friends and fellow members; and,

Whereas, Those manly qualifications which he possessed influence us in a sincere desire to testify to an appreciation of his life amongst us: be it therefore

Resolved, That in the death of Brother William Comer, who was a member of Charleroi Aerie No. 390, Fraternal Order of Eagles, we sincerely deplore the loss of one to whom we had become affectionately attached by long association and by relations which were never marred by the least occurrence of an unfriendly act.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the relatives of the deceased, and that the same be attached to and become a part of the minutes of this Order, and same published in the Daily Mail of Charleroi, Pa. and that our charter be draped for thirty days.

A MERCILESS JUDGE

One Who Shows No Favor.

A merciless judge is Father Time. Before him the weak and the wavering go to the wall. Only the truth can stand. For years the following statement from a Charleroi resident has withstood this severest of all tests.

Mrs. Robert Coulter, 320 Third St., Charleroi, says: "One of the family had the measels when he was five years old, which left him with weak kidneys. The trouble was most distressing at night and there seemed to be an inability to control the kidney secretions. I had often heard Doan's Kidney Pills recommended and I was induced to get a supply at Piper Bros.' Drug Store. The one who used this medicine was soon benefited and we have hopes of a permanent cure." (Statement given May 6, 1909.)

Her Hopes Realized.

On January 30, 1914, Mrs. Coulter said: "I will willingly confirm the statement I gave praising Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago. Doan's Kidney Pills made a cure for one of our family."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Coulter recommends. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

P. H. C. TO HAVE RALLY AND SOCIAL MEETING FRIDAY NIGHT

The object of the meeting will be to meet and get acquainted with the new District deputy Charles Hanbury, who arrived in Charleroi this week. Mr. Hanbury has already started an active campaign to increase the membership of the circle, which has entered the fall and winter contest for new members. A musical and literary program has been arranged for the meeting Friday evening which will be for members only.

Join the APEX Electric Washing Machine Club

Every housewife should have an APEX Electric Washer

An opportunity for 100 homes to procure this wonderful labor saving device on very easy payments. DON'T DELAY. ACT NOW. Our supply of machines will not last long, and this price and terms may never again be possible.

We must take 100 machines in one shipment to make this sale possible and in order to take care of the shipment we are making terms never before attempted by anyone. Other dealers require $25 down and $10 per month and charge $100 to $125 for machines which are no bigger and do no better work.

THE APEX Electric Washer it built entirely of metal, fully guaranteed and will positively do the work in a satisfactory manner. It is hard on dirt, easy on clothes, has all working parts covered, and will wash and wring at the same time. Equipped with swinging wringer.

In order to make this great sale possible, we were compelled to purchase 100 Apex Washers —to be shipped at once. It is a great opportunity. Don't miss it.
